About Last Night... Last Night: Heat 106, Jazz 110 Last night the Miami Heat once again proved why they are the most talented team in the NBA, and from start to finish they looked destined to win this game. The Miami Heat are 2-1 at this point in the season, and although they won a game against the Bulls, I still believe they had it in them to lose last night's game to the Jazz as well. Well, I was wrong. Miami took a 3 point lead into the 4th and still had plenty of time to put away this game, and they did it by coming out firing on all cylinders. Miami's defense was on point all game long, and combined with the Heat's talent and offense they were able to completely shut down Utah's offense. Here are some highlights: The best part of this video is how proud LeBron is during his team-mates defense. He seems more concerned with how his guys are reacting to what he wants to tell them than the actual defense. I enjoy it. Early in the game, LeBron was attacking Derrick Favors and after a few drives was forced to kick it out away from the basket to Josh McRoberts. As you can see, he got tangled up with Al Jefferson and was forced to take a shot. After this play, Utah began working the free throw line and Dwyane Wade stepped up. This is where I thought he was going to get in some offense, but he was able to get

----- Hello, this is Svelt, who will be taking the time to review the title "Elden Ring". I'd like to begin by saying that the game I'm about to review is the absolute top on my list. Ever since I first heard that a new MMORPG called Elden Ring was announced by ENKI, I knew that I was going to definitely be checking out this game. Not only that, but after I played this game, I've been wanting to try out the action RPG genre. I'm going to be using GamePress to review this game because I believe it's a great choice when reviewing games on Steam and I'm a fan of their reviews. So, let's begin our review of Elden Ring!!

----- THE NEW FANTASY ACTION RPG. Rise, Tarnished, and be guided by grace to brandish the power of the Elden Ring and become an Elden Lord in the Lands Between. You take up the title of an Elden Lord, and the battle between good and evil begins. The question is which side will you choose? The future of this world is in your hands!

----- Gameplay First, the basics! The graphics and the animations of this game are very smooth. Overall, the graphics are fluid and give off a very vivid look. The music is also very fitting and the sounds are well balanced. Then, let's talk about the gameplay! • World Map: You can travel across different areas, such as Oversea, Walls, and the Sky. Depending on the difficulty, you can also enter dungeons and PvP battles in other areas. • PvP Battles: You can enter PvP battles against other players to test your skills and fight to the death. • Create Your Own Character: With customizations and configurations of weapons, armor, and magic, you can bff6bb2d33

What's new:

Deerhoof will play an intimate show at Jones Beach Theater Aug. 12 with their daytime obsession Danny Brown leading a party which joins the band to perform new songs from Disconnect While Colorblind. Danny Brown, a man who can seemingly barely stop smiling, would just as soon be talked to dead as not. And in spite of his subject matter, Brown often presents a supple, aphoristic, not-quite-serious take on how people seem to exist; sometimes acutely and sometimes poorly, in love, on the phone, and of course, in bars. His third studio album — Brown's 10th overall — was largely the work of the late friend and fellow rapper XXXTentacion, whose sudden death last fall sent Brown into what seems to have been a deep funk, a prolonged, deliberate retreat into himself, a kind of grief. The intimate starts are thus low-key and bearable, extending through more standard rap and grime and into some ancient rock music; their roundabout, subtle meandering seems like the beginning of a conscious decision to hear himself speak, to subject himself to this kind of gentle, not-quite-serious reexamination of the world. At times, this fittingly delectable run-around at the periphery seems like a desperate plea for speech, or for the kind of over-the-head analysis that you find both in journalism and comedy. (Call it a frustration that a proper reserve version of Black Pete had to be made.) "There are times when you get so caught up in the process of giving someone a pat on the back when they're trying to do their job, you start telling them exactly how they should be doing it," Brown raps over electronic static, which comes out of his phones and growls off an urban autumn. "Then, all of a sudden, you realize, 'Wait, maybe that's not the task at hand.'" — continue reading on next page

Trump Supporter Brought Gun to Racist Inauguration and Brought a Knife to a BBQ Brought a gun, a knife and a racist poster to a family’s Trump-supporting BBQ The Henderson family from Orem, Utah encountered a large, well-organized anti-Trump group during a recent barbeque. According to NBC, one member of the family has been charged with misdemeanor disorderly conduct, while the other was charged with disorderly conduct, terroristic threatening and criminal impersonation. The incident occurred on the evening of President Donald Trump’s inauguration, when the Henderson family, having hosted a Trump-supporting barbeque, were confronted by the unnamed anti-Trump group outside. “If you’re not going to stand for the flag, if you are going to be disrespectful to the duly elected president, if you are going to be disrespectful to the flag, then you need to be arrested,” the unidentified male said to the Henderson family. The anti-Trump group also showed up to the family’s home, where a Democratic rally had occurred earlier. One member of the family, Frederick N. Henderson Jr., was charged with misdemeanor disorderly conduct and criminal impersonation. His wife, Clara M. Henderson, was charged with disorderly conduct and terroristic threatening. However, the third family member, their 3-year-old son, Jaxon Colton Henderson, was still inside. As the family returned home, a crowd waiting for them threw rocks at their vehicle, then “hit and kicked” the car as it drove away. According to NBC, Henderson told police
